DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-3, 5-14 and 17-21 are pending in the application.

Drawings

2. The drawings were received on 11/21/07. These drawings are approved by the Examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 17,18,19,21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Periyalwar et al. Periyalwar hereinafter (US patent number 7,218,891, of a record).

Periyalwar teaches a multi-hop communication system (see for example figs. 6, and 9), wherein the relay station (62 in fig. 6) having a first radio interface and a multi-input-multi-output antenna for communicating between source station (63) and base station (61) as in claim 17; and communicating with at least one base station using a multi-input-multi-output as in claim 18. The relay station 62 communicates in FDD and

TDD, claimed simultaneously, between the base station and that of the source station (63) as in claim 17

The system of Periyalwar uses different array of antennas in the multi-input-multi-output configuration depending on the rate of transmission required between the source station and destination station using the relay unit (see col. 1014-54).

Further to claims 19 and 21, Periyalwar also teaches that a pilot signal is used for measuring the signal strength for purpose of routing (see abstract) as in claim 19; and the transmission between base unit and the relay station (62) using a time division duplexing as in claim 21..

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Periyalwar et al. Periyalwar hereinafter (US patent number 7,218,891, of a record) in view of Fujiwara (US patent Publication number 2003/0165127, of a record).

Periyalwar teaches the claimed subject matter in claims 17 as indicated above.

Further Periyalwar also teaches that a pilot signal is used for measuring the signal strength for purpose of routing (see abstract). However, Periyalwar fails to teach that a memory containing identification information.

Fujiwara for the same endeavor as the instant application and that of Periyalwar teaches a multi-hop communication system for communicating between source and destination through at least one relay stations, wherein the communication between the source and destination using an identification (see fig.8) for identifying the relay unit to route the data from the source to the destination.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the identification of Fujiwara in the system of Periyalwar for identifying the relay and properly routing the signal to be transmitted between the sources to the destination using the ID of each of the relay unit at the time the invention was made.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 1-3, 5-14 are allowed.
8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the claimed subject matter in claims 1-3 and 5-14 is allowable because the art of record fail to teach or fairly suggest the claimed "multi-hop communication system for simultaneously communicating between the first and second real station and that of the base station using a first radio interface and between the first relay station and the user station using a second radio interface." See specification for example in paragraph [0009], where the resource is maximized by using separate radio interfacing between the user and the relay and second interfacing between the relay and the base station..
- 9.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
